

Jennifer K. Lovelace
Director of Residence Life & Housing

Jennifer K. Lovelace graduated from Drew University in Madison, NJ where she studied history and psychology. She earned her Master of Education degree from Springfield College in Springfield, MA. Jennifer has had a variety of experiences in student affairs. She has worked in admissions at Pace University, student activities/community service at Worcester Polytechnic Institute, and residential life at the University of Hartford. She has been, and continues to be, highly involved in professional organizations such as NEACUHO and NASPA.

As Director of Residence Life and Housing, Jennifer is responsible for the oversight and management of the residential facilities at NEC. She supervises a Housing Coordinator, 2 full-time Area Coordinators, 2 Graduate Hall directors, and 22 highly motivated Resident Advisors. Jennifer is passionate about the liberal arts education and creating a strong sense of community within the residence halls. Her vision is to create an environment where students, faculty and staff C.A.R.E. (Courteous, Authentic, Responsible, and Engaged).