A Quick Guide to the Danforth Library

Enter to discover what the library
can do for you!

Did you know that Danforth has:

- Over 100,000 books?
- Over 100 periodical subscriptions including popular magazines and scholarly journals?
- Access to over 15,000 more titles, full text articles and reference sources online?
- A thirty seat computer lab, reading rooms and study space?
- Staff members available for classroom instruction and individual assistance more than 70 hours a week?

The H. Raymond Danforth Library, located at the heart of the campus, is an inviting space in which to conduct academic research, relax with a book, or collaborate on projects. It provides a creative and supportive learning environment while fulfilling a library's traditional task of building a well-rounded collection of resources. It also enthusiastically supports the college's mission of engaged and critical learning by helping to create a student body equipped with the information literacy skills that are needed to succeed in modern society.

The Danforth Library is open almost 100 hours a week and has reference staff available to assist with searching efficiently, evaluating effectively and ethically using information.

MATERIALS

BOOKS

Library materials are primarily chosen to support the college curriculum, and are organized by Library of Congress Classification System. There are over 100,000 volumes, including the reference and research collections.

PERIODICALS

The library subscribes to a wide range of newspapers and scholarly journals, which can be found in the Considine Periodicals Reading Room.

ELECTRONIC RESOURCES

The library has subscriptions to over thirty important research databases, which supply students and faculty with quick and easy access to a variety of journals, newspapers and literature from around the world. These resources can be accessed using the library's workstations or from home using your NEC ID number.

NON-PRINT MATERIAL

Videotapes, CDs and DVDs include music, plays and films, and are available to borrow from the Circulation Desk.

CIRCULATION

All materials can be found by searching the Danforth Library Catalog, which is located online on the library's web page.

Most library materials circulate, except for reference materials, certain reserve items, special collections, print periodicals and maps.

Circulation periods are:

- two weeks for books and CDs.
- three days for DVDs and VHS.

CAN'T FIND WHAT YOU WANT?

Order it through Interlibrary Loan!

NEC is a member of GMILCS and NHCUC, two NH library consortiums, which allow students to borrow materials from other colleges and libraries from around the state. The Danforth Library catalog makes it possible to search all the GMILCS libraries at one time for materials. Links to NHCUC member library websites can be found at www.nhcuc.org. Interlibrary loan requests can be placed using online forms on the library website.

In addition, NEC also belongs to the OCLC worldwide network of libraries, which provides access to many other library collections.
