New England College is a recipient of a National Institutes of Health INBRE (IDeA Networks of Biomedical Research Excellence) grant which supports the NEC INBRE Summer Undergraduate Research Program (SURP). SURP offers students research training opportunities at New England College with NEC professors in Biology and Health Science. The goal of the INBRE grant is to provide research opportunities that help encourage students to pursue graduate programs in biomedical research.

- The specific research aims depend on the research project and the research mentor (Dr. Cook, Dr. Koziol and Dr. Newcomb in Biology and Health Science and Dr. Sarah Gunnery in Psychology).
- The program normally starts mid-May and runs to early July with consideration to faculty vacation time (about 8 weeks).
- SURP students are provided free housing at NEC and paid $15 per hour for undergraduate research training.
- All students are required to present at the NH-INBRE Annual Meeting in early August whether this is virtual or face to face. If it is face to face, then lodging, registration and transport are provided.
